Whether in city or village, the ordin-ary Chinaman takes his breakfast at the tea-house or restaurant. It con-sists almost entirely of meat rolls or patties. They are dipped in vinegar, soy or a solution of red pepper, when eaten. Sometimes the steamed rolls, after they have grown old, are made palatable by being toasted on a grill over a charcoal fire. Another popular dish is doughnuts fried in oil. Baking is almost entirely unknown, but there is a cake of the size and shape of an ox rib, which is baked by being stuck on the inside of a jar-shaped furnace, in which there is a hot charcoal fire. These cakes are sometimes circular but in every case they are covered with the seeds of the sesame, which add very much to the flavor. Another variety is a large, round cake cooked on a griddle.

A Successful Farmer. Within three miles of the town, going eastward, is the farm of Mr. W. Creamer, one of the municipality's largest and most prosperous mixed farmers. Mr. Creamer came to this country in 1880 and settled on a por-tion of the land which comprises his present enormous farm of 1,280 acres. In common with many others of a similar period he experienced all the hardships and difficulties common to the absence of railway and market facili-ties. In nowise daunted, by energy, industry and indomitable will be has been able to surmount all obstacles and has achieved an unparalleled success, and is known throughout the diktrict as one of its pre-eminent farmers. His operations extend over 1,280 acres. two sections (the thought alone of so much land makes the Eastern farmer dizzy); 800 acres of this is broken and the remainder is excellent pasture land and wood. This harvest he took off a crop of 500 acres of wheat and 200 of other grains. Four hundred acres are plowed and ready for wheat next spring. Mr. Creamer is, as has been stated, a mixed farmer of no mean proportions, having at the present time 40 horses, 60 head of cattle and 50 pigs. The most modern farm buildings are found on his premises, the main building being a barn 55 feet square on a stone foundation, containing stabling for 16 horses and a large number of cattle. The loft is stored with 29 loads of sheaf oats for feed and tons of hay; there is also a cutting box. Another building of large dimensions is the granary, in which, after teaming large quantities to market, he still has stored 3,000 bushels of wheat. A crushing machine is in the building. There are a number of lesser buildings containing chicken house, pig pens and cattle sheds. The farm residence is a handsome frame structure of ample pro portions, in connection with it is a wood shed. The water supply is unexcelled; besides house supply there is a well in the stables and a never failing spring situated in a bluff, which never freezes. Surrounded by a thick bluff of poplars, extending in a semi-circle to the west, north and east, the winter storms are broken and accumula-tion of snow unknown. Added to his farming operations, Mr. Creamer conducts a threshing outfit for the season. His success is an instance of what can accomplished in Western Canada.

Fast Disappearing.

Harvard, a pretty Massachusetts town, is the birthplace of the Shakers. It was here that Mother Ann Lee, an English woman, came in the summer of 1781, with a little band of devoted followers, to expound the doctrine of her faith. To-day there are two settlements of Shakers in the neighboring towns of Harvard and Shirley. During the last fifty years interest in the Shakers has gradually died out, and the membership all over New England has grown smaller and smaller. As there are never any births in a Shaker family, the only hope of growth lies in taking in new members from the outside. Of course, the logical result of such a theory is that deaths will deplete the ranks, and so to-day the communities at Harvard and Shirley are not as large and prosperous as they were once. A large proportion of the two families are old men and women, and there are few young members to take their places in the years to come.

Fighting Intellicence.

On the battlefield nowadays it is only when men come to the bayonet charge that they fight shoulder to shoulder. In order to minimize the risk of their being hit the men fighting are at other times kept a distance apart. Thus the bullet that just misses oneman does not strike his neighbor. The order being so open, and the men thus spread out over a considerable extent of ground, it sometimes happens, especially whenas in the present war-many officers are killed, that a number of men find themselves without any commander. But the modern soldier has enough "fighting intelligence," as it is called, to go on carrying out operations till he again has a leader. In battle the men under various commanders often get thoroughly mixed up; but that has no effect on them. They instinctively obey any commander; and in South Africa it has recently occurred that soldiers have fought gallantly under officers whom they never in their lives saw before.

Besides the above, the Prussian State owns one colliery, that of Ibbenbuhren, in the Osnabruck district of Westphalia, the collieries of Deister and Osterwald in the Clausthal district, and half the Obernkirchen colliery in the same district.
